

PEMFC durability at intermediate temperatures

The Goal of the Project:

This project addresses the open question of what is causing the ageing at elevated temperatures and if certain operating conditions could be feasible.

Expected Result:

- Determine which is the main ageing mechanism at elevated temperatures for different ageing protocols
- Determine the main component which degrades at given operating conditions.
- Find optimal operating conditions to avoid ageing while still achieving high power output.

Project Leader: Björn Eriksson

E-mail: bjorerik@kth.se